RESPECT THE RULES RESPECT YOURSELF

ADVANCED VERSION

THIS BOOK BELONGS TO

A large, empty rectangular box with rounded corners and a simple black outline, intended for a student to write their name.

It's game day. Before the game, the Montreal Canadiens coach talks to the team in the dressing room. Everyone is quiet so they can hear him.

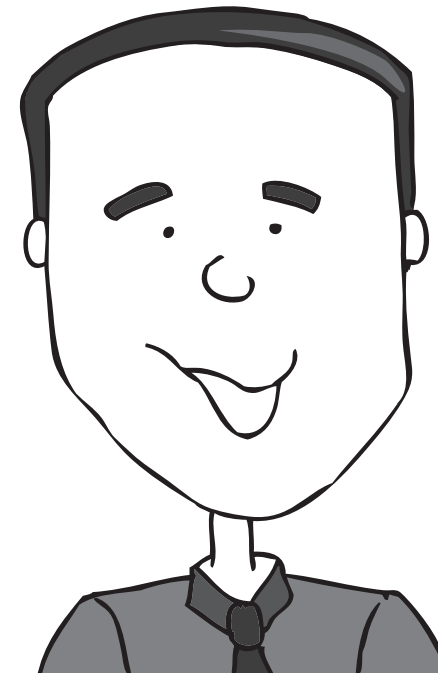

“Now let’s go out and win!”
The players cheer, stand up and rush out on to the ice.

During the penalty, Shea gets the puck back. He takes a slapshot.

It's very hard and fast. He scores! Shea and his Canadiens teammates play by the rules. The Canadiens win the game. The fans cheer so loudly that the building shakes. They are proud of the team.

"Remember, everybody," says the coach, "always obey the rules of the game. Respect yourselves, and respect the players on the other team."

Shea Weber, a Montreal defenceman, is on the ice. A player on the other team has the puck. Shea's job is to get the puck back in a fair way. The other player is a little bit ahead of Shea.

Shea skates hard and he catches up to the other player. He takes the puck away and skates off in the other direction.

The other player is mad that Shea took the puck away. He trips Shea. The referee blows his whistle. The other player gets a penalty for tripping. He has to go off the ice for two minutes.

The game starts. Both teams are playing hard and the fans are going wild. The action goes back and forth.
